Wisdom For The Week :

Anyone can achieve any reasonable goal with one easy step. Simply write the goal down on a piece of paper and read it twice a day. Andrew Carnegie did it starting when he was a teenager. It worked pretty well for him. But it is so simple that most people wont try it.

MoNdAy FuNnIeS

(contributed by Colby Nielsen Thanks Colby)

There were two statues that died and went to heaven.

When they got there God said because they had been such patient statues all those years they could go back to earth for two days as humans and do anything they wanted.

After the first day they came back and God said they still had one more day. So they left again.

As they were leaving God over heard one statue say to the other one, "OK today you get to hold the pigeons while I poop on their heads".
