Has anyone every heard what happened to the hydrogen engine that the BYU scantiest Roger Billings created in the 80's in Utah. His parents went to the same church as us in Provo. That how we knew so much about what he was doing. He bought the old steel mill in Springville, Utah and converted it into his lab. Winabago gave him over a million dollars for the rights to put the engine in their motor homes once it was completed. I saw 2 cars and a UTA bus all the time that were running on his hydrogen engines while I lived in Salt Lake in the 80. The UTA bus was the one that went from Salt Lake to Provo. It was easy to spot the cars driving around because of the 2 hoses that came out of the trunk and went up over the top down into the engine. The bus had a sign on it about the engine it was using. Anyone know what ever happened to that engine? IT WORKED! He converted water into hydrogen and oxygen and then burned them in the engine.
